

Do you want to become a journalist?

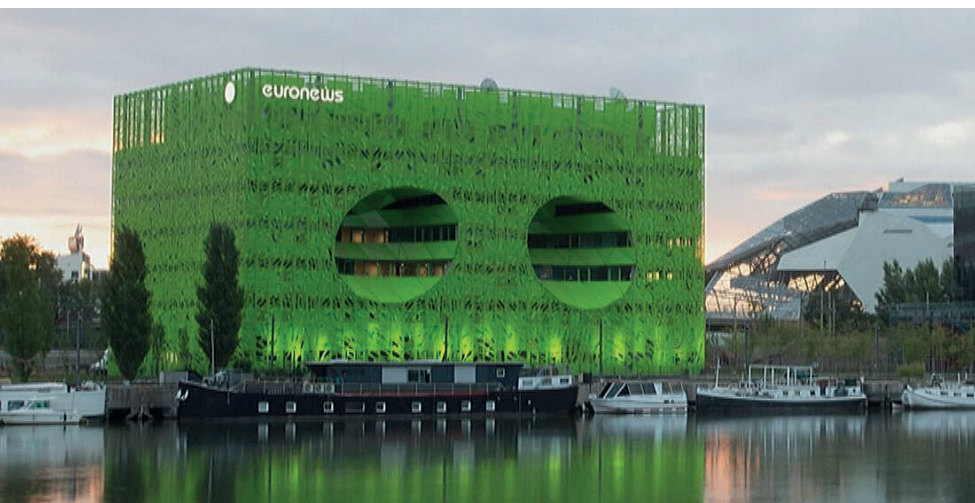

JOIN EURONEWS OR AFRICANEWS AS AN APPRENTICE THROUGH THE CENTRE DE FORMATION DES JOURNALISTES

This two-year diploma programme combines courses from one of the most renowned journalism schools in France with practical experience in the newsroom of Europe's leading international news channel.

Euronews sponsors your studies: your tuition fees will be covered and you will also earn a monthly salary of between €800 and €1,000 during the two-year programme.

Location of the programme: Euronews world headquarters in Lyon, France.

When? Starting in September 2022

TO APPLY FOR THIS GRADUATE-LEVEL PROGRAMME, PLEASE FOLLOW THE STEPS BELOW:

- 1 Send your application to Euronews before 31/03/2022 to Maureen HARDY maureen.hardy@euronews.com (CV in French and your native language + explain your motivation to become a journalist (Youtube video format appreciated))
- 2 If your application is accepted, we will contact you for a first interview by videoconference
- 3 Once your application has been validated, we will help you to create your application for the CFJ program.
- 4 If your application is retained by the CFJ, you will be invited to take part in a final interview in front of a panel.

TO BE ELIGIBLE, YOU MUST:

- Hold a Bac+3 or Bachelor's degree (three years of study, without repeating) with 180 ECTS credits
- Have a minimum level of French C1 (required) and your mother tongue is: English, German, Spanish, Italian or Portuguese
- Ideally, you should be an EU citizen.

Why choose this programme?

The dual work-study programme involves learning the theory and fundamentals of the craft whilst simultaneously putting them into practice, so that you can develop key skills and interact with professionals on a daily basis.

For the opportunity to become a student at the Centre de Formation des Journalistes, one of France's most prestigious schools of journalism. Created in 1946, its students have an employment rate of almost 100% upon graduation. You will benefit from high-quality classes, taught in French and based on a «learning by doing» approach. After two years of this programme, combining CFJ classes and an apprenticeship at Euronews or Africanews, equivalent to 120 ECTS credits, you will graduate with a state-accredited, graduate degree in journalism. Working at Euronews means joining experts in their field and discovering the world of journalism and an international atmosphere. You will also be assigned a supervisor (a senior journalist from Euronews) who will support you in your projects and your skill development in order to obtain your diploma.

Your tuition fees are fully covered and you will receive a monthly salary of between 800 € and 1,000 €, depending on your age, during these two years of study/apprenticeship.

If you have any questions about the roles and objectives of an apprentice in the newsroom, contact: thomas.seymat@euronews.com

For any other questions about the programme, contact: anne.viorner@euronews.com euronews.

Euronews is Europe's leading news channel. Every day, our team of 400 journalists of more than 30 different nationalities gather news and views from all over Europe and the world.

Its mission is to enable people to form their own opinions. Euronews is resolutely impartial and seeks to offer a diversity of views: Euronews is «All Views». Euronews is broadcast 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, and has 15 distinct languages (12 languages + 3 affiliated languages).

Founded in 1993 in Lyon (France), Euronews now reaches 440 million households across 160 countries and is the most-watched news channel in continental Europe. With nearly 22 million followers on social networks and an average of more than 25 million unique monthly visitors to its website and app,

<https://www.euronews.com/about>

<https://www.euronews.com/feel-connected-to-europe>

Euronews already has a strong digital audience. Euronews will continue to develop digital formats, both to meet the needs of its existing audiences for more specialised and in-depth content and to attract new audiences, building on the success of Euronews Green, Euronews Travel, Euronews Culture and Euronews Next.

africanews.

Africanews is the only independent multilingual pan-African news channel made for Africa. Launched in 2016, Africanews provides unbiased news coverage (broadcast and digital), in French and English, with a team of 50 correspondents across the continent.

Africanews is distributed 24/7 to 35 million TV homes. It is available in more than 40 countries in Africa but also in the United Kingdom and the United States.

Initially based in Pointe Noire, Republic of Congo, it now broadcasts from the premises of its big European sister, Euronews.

euronews.
green

euronews.
travel

euronews.
culture

euronews.
next